Pat B. Freeman

Into Action!

About Pat

Speaking since age 7, Pat found her inspiration from her mom's words. My mom always said, "Patricia, you can do or be anything you want to be, if you're willing to do the work."

After a failed marriage of many years, two teenage sons torn by the split, and losing her home, Pat lost her job of 15 years as a community college director. Rather than cry about it, she said, "I almost smiled." Instead, this educator and serial entrepreneur turned devastation into inspiration into action — and did what she had never done before!

Pat became a full-time entrepreneur and avid blogger, with an entrepreneurial empowerment focus.
